Instructions for Newly Admitted International Students requesting the F-1 visa eligibility document (Form I-20)

Form I-20 is a visa eligibility document issued by Northeastern University to certify that an eligible international student has met admission requirements for a full-time program of study, and has demonstrated sufficient financial support for his/her studies in the U.S. This visa eligibility document is needed to apply for a non-immigrant student visa at a U.S. embassy or consulate to obtain F-1 status within the U.S.

The following admitted students should request an I-20 from Northeastern University:

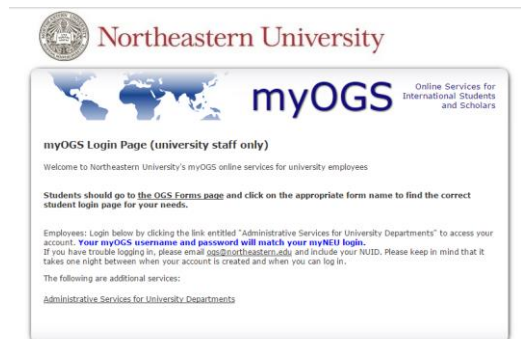

- New international students coming from outside the U.S.
- Students currently in F-1 status studying at another school in the U.S.
- Current Northeastern students in F-1 status moving to a new degree program at Northeastern University
- Students currently in the U.S. in any nonimmigrant status (e.g. H-4, L-2, etc.) who want to change to F-1 status*

 If you are not planning to change to F-1 status, please note that not all immigration status categories allow for studying, internships, co-ops, international travel associated with an academic program and/or other experiential learning opportunities. Please note that some academic programs at Northeastern have experiential learning requirements (e.g., co-op or study abroad). Immigration statuses other than F/J may not allow for those and as such may impede the successful completion of your program of study.*

The Office of Global Services (OGS) will process a Form I-20 request only after the student has been officially admitted to a full-time program of study, has accepted the offer, paid the deposit and has provided the required information and supporting documentation through an e-form within myOGS, the online system for Northeastern University international students. OGS encourages you to submit your I-20 request as soon as possible to provide ample time for the issuance of the I-20 and for your F-1 visa application process prior to your enrollment.
